EENA WALL TENTS

We originally built these tents to meet the needs of Oregon elk hunters where severe weather and heavy snow loads are encountered. All EENA tents are made of heavy-duty 10 oz. per square yard breathable, 100% cotton "EENA Cloth", with a Marine finish made to our specs. This makes it extremely water repellent and mildew resistant. It is pre-shrunk and tightly woven for good heat retention and has high strength to weight ratio. This is by far the best material for the money that we have found in our over forty years of making tents, and we have no intentions of changing. Available in colored light marine green or white which ever you prefer. Heavy duty 7' nylon zippers at each end. Spur grommets used throughout. Properly reinforced at all points of strain, with no problem-causing fluff or nonsense to add cost. Like all wall tents, "EENA's" are best pitched with an A-frame of locally cut poles, however, pole sets are listed elsewhere in this catalog. As all EENA tents are made only to order, please allow us plenty of time to make one for you.

INTERNAL FRAMES

Our internal frames are available in steel or aluminum. The STEEL kit pieces are made from 1-3/8" round galvanized steel tubing with 1" EMT conduit for the frame. The ALUMINUM kit pieces are made of 1" EMT conduit with the frames out of 1" IPS round aluminum pipe with .125 wall thickness. Frames include both the rafter kits and the poles.

light grey. With #2 spur grommets about 3' apart all the way around so that they may be used for almost anything.

FLY TARPS

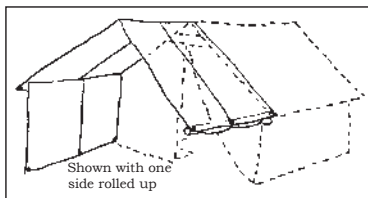

For added protection from prolonged rain, heavy snow loads or desert sun, a fly is a welcome addition to any tent. These flies are made of the same 10 oz. Marine finish army duck as EENA Wall tents in either light green or white. They are reinforced and grommeted, and made the same length as the ridge on the tent and approx. 9" wider on each side to provide complete coverage of the tent. Naturally, they can be put up separately to make a dining fly or used for a dozen other things.

SCREEN FRONTS

Here in the Northwest, bugs aren't really much of a problem. However, a Florida customer who regularly camps in the everglades seems to disagree. We designed these screen fronts for him. They are made of poly no-see-um screen with nylon zippers, and attach to your frame with nylon tie tapes and webbing loops in the corners. They tie out of the way when not being used or stay at home if they're not needed.

EENA TT TENT

A unique and highly functional design with Polyester no-see-um screen and heavy duty nylon zippers. Three sides open completely for summer ventilation and zip tight for winter, plus a screened peak vent. Fourth side has a 5" stove pipe hole with cover. These tents have been tested in all weather conditions, including wind and snow, and have proved to withstand them. The TT tent is made of two different materials that are tough, water repellent, fire retardant, and mildew resistant. The sides are made from POLYTEX, a coated polyester for maximum light-weight and compactability. The roof is made of MARINE CANVAS for maximum durability and breathability.

Comes complete with the following:

- Pole set in storage bag: 1 adjustable center pole (shock corded), 4 side poles (3 pieces each)
- Pegs – 12 each, 10" metal
- Sod Cloth
- 5" Stove Hole with cover
- Ropes – 4 each, with tightners

MINER STYLE

Once popular with the Klondikers and 49ers, it is now a favorite with river runners and outfitters. The easiest of all our tents to put up. Stake the corners and raise the peak with a pole or rope over a limb. The river rats use one 8', two 9' or two 10' oars for poles (as shown). Due to a complete lack of vertical sides it is by far the most stable tent in a high wind.

LEAN-TO

This lean-to, patterned after the Whelen lean-to of long ago, is as it was then an excellent shelter in the wilderness.

The largest difference comes from modern materials and production methods, which allows us to make this tent at a total weight of 6 lbs, rolled down to 4" x 12". Built to be supported by a line strung between two trees in front of a fire. The slanted walls reflect all heat on the occupants making a crisp fall night a joy to be alive. Ample room for two people and their gear. Made of 3oz coated nylon, Red, Green, or Blue. 6 lbs.

Heavy Duty Model: Same as above, except made of 10 oz. Maine canvas, white or green. 10 lbs.

$275.00

WEDGE TENT

Basically evolved from a tarp thrown over a rope. Its steep sides shed heavy rain or snow and is easily pitched between two trees, sheer poles or what have you. This tent features a heavy duty nylon zipper clear to the peak on each end which zips down from the top as well as up from the bottom to accommodate a ridge pole. This arrangement also allows one side to be raised as an awning and admit the warmth of a camp fire.

TARP TENT

This is not the answer the permanent winter housing problem north of the Arctic Circle or not in our opinion is any backpacking tent, but for shelter from the elements you'll not find a better

1-1/2 lb. protection. One of our biggest objections to the tarp tent has always been their open-ness in a crowded campground.

This tarp not only gives you a 6' height but zips shut to afford the privacy given by any tent. Measures 88" x 144" with ample ties to be pitched a hundred ways, but can be made into a tent 52" x 88" x 72" high. 3oz coated nylon, Red, Green or Blue. 1-1/2 lbs.

ALLKNIGHT STOVE

This is the grown up son of the WarmKnight stove we've been selling for years. The addition of the cast aluminum door and an airtighter design has lengthened the burn time considerably. Depending on the type of fuel, altitude, etc., burn time should approach 8 hours. It is made of 22 gauge black iron and stands 22" high with legs extended, 12" without, is 12" wide and 24" long. It has a biscuit warming, sock drying shelf that braces the legs, keeps most of the heat off the tent floor, and packs inside the stove. The legs are designed to prevent them from sinking into the ground, poking holes in the tent floor, etc. The pipe comes out the back to have the largest possible heating and cooking surface. This stove uses standard 5" pipe that should be available locally in most parts of the country. Hand made. 30 lbs.

$280.00

*We do not stock stove pipe, but it is available at most local hardware stores.

WATER TANK

Hot water when you want it. Measures 2-3/4" x 8" x 19" with handy spout. 2 gal. Stainless steel all soldered, no silicone, etc., inside. Hangs on the side table brackets. Packs inside 3 lbs.

$80.00

TABLE

A very handy 10" x 20" work surface where you can set hot things. Clips to the stove on the side table brackets. Fits either or both sides of the stove. Packs inside. 3 lbs.

BEDROLL TARPS

Our updated version of the cowboy's bedroll tarp. Made of 10oz breathable, water-repellent, marine canvas. Heavy duty full length and across the bottom nylon zipper, allowing it to open flat. Two will zip together to accommodate a double bag. Measures 86" x 34" zipped, 86" x 68" open. Grommets all the way around the edge to tie down or make into a windbreak, etc. Nylon webbing with no slip buckles sewn on to keep it rolled up. Attached flap measures 36" x 36" to cover your head in case of wind or rain, to store clothes or a pillow, etc. 4-1/2 lbs. Available in natural or pale green.
